-Owing to the breaking of an axle, the through train on the Wilmington and Manchester Railroad, bound for Augusta, was, on Monday last, thrown down an embankment eight or ten feet high, the car turning a complete somersault in its shall watch with some interest the fate of fall. The express messenger, Captain H. L. Leon, sustained severe though not serious injury, in his breast and hip, by being thrown agains: the sides of the car, in its revolution. Mail agent Wiggins sustained some bruises on his shoulders, and the preservation of his life, in view of the complete revolution of the car, is a subject of wonder to himself even. The conductor's car, in which conductor Jarvis was at the time of the accident, was also thrown have sold out his bonds, or be mad because from the track, turning half over in its fall. The clothes of the colored stewardess caught fire from contact with her stove, and were burned to her skin, but further bodily damage was pre vented, as she maintains, by her hoop skirt. This car was prevented from falling to the level of the mail and express car, by conring in contact with a telegraph pole. The position of the conductor's car arrested the progress of the passenger car down the declivity, and it was kept on the track without other injuny to the passengers than the incidental shock of the accident. As soon as Conductor Jarvis had recovered and surveyed the wreck of his train, he proceeded to Kingville and secured another train, with which he returned to the scene of the wreck, and took

-The National Labor Convention of colored men, at Washington, which adjourned sine die last week, passed a resolution complimenting Isaac Meyers, of Baltimore, its originator and dent. He made a speech during the meeting. in which he said that in Baltimore about two hundred and fifty colored men men banded together after being discharged, through white influence, from the shipyards, and purchased one of their own, at a cost of $10,000, and to-day the yard employs two hundred and fifty colored men and afty-ave white men, and is in a prosperous condition. Some of the white men employed now in the yard are the same persons who helped to kick the colored men out of the yards of Baltimore. He would not endorse the political Workingmen's Union of this country, because the Repub-Ucan party had done too much for his race, and to colored man in the land should attach himself to the former organization, as its object was to break down the great Republican party, and form a Democratic party. A committee of colored men waited upon the President on Saturday, when Senator Harris, colered, of North Carolina, a delegate to the National Labor Convention, made a speech, in which he thanked the President, in the name of the colored people, for appointing hack men to omoe, thereby recognizing their claims as a part of the body politic. He too good to be true.

said that one of the objects of the convention | The People's Bank of South Carolina. was to secure land for the laborers of the South. so that they may become permanent settlers and independent citizens. There are eight millions of secure these results, and they desire to secure of the langed land grants to railways and other corporations to the detriment of actual settlers. The President replied that he could only aid the that he would give the matter his attention.

New Phase of Woman's Rights.

The hearts of the sable legislators in Columbia were thrilled by the announcement of Wright that he intended to test the Civil Rights bill, though it should cost him his last cent. In his own person an outrage had been inflicted upon the colored race, and by his own purse that outrage should be terriprofesses to be a lawyer; it is a pity he had not a better case. Certainly it would not be easy for him to appear at greater disadvan-Money Order or by Express. If this cannot be tage; for both the wrong of which he complains and the pledge he gives to his aggrieved fellow-citizens are equally pitiable.

Wright complains that he was turned out of the ladies' car. What business had he there? Does he not know that any man, of whatever color, unattended by a domestic responsibility, has no right to occupy that car? He is allowed to sit in it only by the sufferance of the conductor, and may be turned out at the will of the latter. Nor are we aware that the conductor is obliged to give a reason to any intruder why he should leave. Wright's seat may have been held in reserve for expected lady passengers, or his looks may not have been in his favor, or he may have had too much musk-on his pocket handkerchief. Who knows? The whole wrong consists in this, that the aggrieved senator tried to take a lady's place and was ordered out of it. There is no evidence to show that he or she carried the customary fan and lunch-basket, or wore her veil, her bonnet, or even her chignon. There is reason to believe that she dressed like a man, that she disputed her place like a litigous man, and blustered among the ladies like an ill-bred man, and that she was finally carried out of the cars, and not kicked out. This is the substance of Wright's wrong.

Now as to Wright's proposed sacrifice, not for the sex, as one would suppose, but for the race. Here the lawyer so clearly appears that we must ask the outraged lady's pardon for resorting sometimes to the masculine pronoun. We do not mean to prejudice the case by this little change.

"We see the Wright and we approve it too. We know the cause is lost unless she can maintain the character of an outraged lady. But Wright before the Labor Convention at Washington, or the Legislature at Columbia, is not a whit more feminine than Mrs. Dr. Walker in her coat and pantaloons. Well, then, Mrs. Wright in Columbia proclaims that he will spend his last cent in vindicating her right to sit . the ladies' car, or as she expresses it, in testing the virtue of the Civil Rights bill. That bill shall be liquidated by the turning inside out of Uncivil Wright's pockets. But, as Pope says:

for it was this same lady who engaged the Labor Convention at Washington "to create "a fund to prosecute any such case of ex-"clusion under the Civil Rights bill, and to "test the virtue of that bill." That is the fund that Wright intends to work on, and the Palace Farnese during her sojourn in Rome | we have no doubt that he will even consent to receive his fee for his work. Whether he succeeds in the case or not, she can certain-by make more in that way than by stitching New York: Sheldon & Co. > WE received, last evening, a copy of a bill now before the Legislature granting to certain parties, in consideration of a small royalty to be paid to the State, the exclusive right to obtain phosphatic rock from the bed of our navigable streams. We print in another column the bill, together with some shrewd comments from a writer in the Columbia Phœnix, who leaves little to be said in regard to the expediency of the measure. We ourselves favor free trade, as well as in phosphates as in all other commodities; but if such a monopoly as the bill provides for is to be created, justice to the taxpayers demands that it be sold under the auctioneer's hammer, so that the State may reap the largest possible advantage therefrom. We the bill. IT IS REPORTED that Governor Scott will veto the bill to provide for the payment in coin of the interest on the State debt. His Excellency is not opposed to the bill, which was introduced with his approval and is fathered by his financial pet, but he may the House would not agree to pay principal as well as interest in coin. And if he does veto the bill, we suppose that it will be part of the programme to pass it over the veto without more ado. In this way Scott will seem anxious to save his "beloved State," and the bond and stock Ring will not be disappointed.

THE Radical members of the South Carolina Legislature are usually in the market, but their price-not to put too fine a point upon it-is a leetle high, considering the quality of the article. During the debate on the bill to pay the State debt in coin, votes in its favor sold at from $10 to $200. One comfort is that votes will be cheaper later in the session. The members take a practical view of things, and count their honors and dignities by dollars:

For what is worth in anything, But so much money as 'twill bring ?

MEADE, the negro member of the Legislalature, who shot Mattie Stokes, on Sunday is still at large. Is there not in South Carolina one Radical official manly enough to arrest a Radical criminal, or is he to go "unwhipt of justice," with Representative Guffin, who incites the negroes to burn down our houses, and Representative Jones, who wants to slay and destroy "all the rebels" in the State ?

Our Columbia correspondent has been informed that the State tax for 1869-70, on real and personal estate, will be only onehalf of one per cent. This news is almost

The People's Bank will, we believe, resume active business in a few days, and, if sound and able management count for anything, it will soon become one of the most popular, as well as responsible, banking institutions in the State.

SUSAN FIELDING. A Novel. By Mrs. Annie Edwards. Author of "Archie Lovell" and "Stephen Lawrence, Yooman." Illustrated by Sol Eytinge and Winslow Homer. New York: Sheldon & Co. Charleston: John M. Greer.

Mrs. Edwards is a novelist of very decided ability. She has the rare faculty of growth. She never repeats herself either in her plot or in her sketches of character. Each of her three last novels has been a decided advance upon its predecessor, and in each of the three she has added a new and original portrait of the world's picture gallery. "Archie Lovel," "Dot" in "Steven Lawrence," and "Portia French" in the present novel, are new and live creatures, and each one of them will live in the reader's memory long atter the multitudinous heroes and heroines of the Braddon-Wood, Oulda school have faded into well-deserved oblivion. We will not attempt an analysis of the plot of "Susan Fielding." It is worth reading by all who care for a good novel, and we will not spoil the reader's interest by premature disclosures. The book is evidently printed directly from the original sheets of the Galaxy magazine, in which it appears as a serial, and consequently is much marred by the uneven distribution of the chapters. It is so well gotten up in other respects that it is a pity this fault was not avoided.

"PUT YOURSELF IN HIS PLACE. Part First.
By Charles Reade, Author of "Foul Play,"
&c. New York: Sheldon & Co. Charleston: John M. Greer.

As far as we can judge in its present incomplete state, this last work of the veteran novelist promises to rank with his best fictions. It is graphic, vigorous and original, and its governing purpose is timely and well developed. We shall notice the book in detail when completed. The present instalment is introduced by the following characteristic letter: "The publishers of 'The Galaxy' pay me a liberal price for 'Put Yourself in His Place.' If I were a mechanical inventor instead of a literary inventor, this payment would secure them the sole legal right. In the present iniquitous, partial, barbarous and brainless state of law, it only secures them a clear moral right. But I hope all respectable publishers will respect the moral right, will put themselves in their place, and will forbear to reap where they have not sown .- [Charles Reade." MEN'S WIVES. By W. M. Thackeray. New York: D. Appleton & Co. Charleston: John

Russell. The name of Thackeray would sell a far worse book than Men's Wives; but it is rather hard that the public should be baited with a great name to swallow what would be ignominiously rejected if the author were Tabitha

Jones or even Algernon Snooks. It is well enough to read about "The Ravenswing" and "Mr. and Mrs. Frank Berry" and "Dennis Haggerty's Wife," and these sketches have some of the incisiveness of "Vanity Fair," and a dash of the seeming-truth of "The Newcomes." But we want Thackeray, the mature man, not Thackeray in (literary) long clothes, and would prefer to see trifles like "Men's Wives" omitted from all editions of the works of the satirist of the nineteenth century.

New York: John Russell.

The book is wanting, perhaps, in balance and repose; but it is, nevertheless, one of the best sensational romances of the time.

AN AMERICAN FAMILY IN PARIS. With flity-eight illustrations of Historical Monuments and Familiar Scenes. New York: Hurd & Houghton. Charleston: Holmes' Book

This little work is pleasantly written, and will give the young reader a lively idea of the appearance and characteristics of the French capital. There is nothing about the book to show that it is truly an account of the experiences of "An American Family in Paris," but care has been taken to make the local descriptions accurate, and to support the historical statements by recognized authority. The illustrations are both numerous and attractive, and add much to the value of the book, which should be a capital holiday gift, as the author has succeeded in giving "Young Amer-"icans, at home and abroad, both amusement "and useful knowledge, mingled in prepara-"tions which will increase the relish for each." Price $1 50.
